Introduction

The London School of Mediation (LSM) offers acclaimed accredited mediator and mediation training of the highest quality and repute across the globe. Our Cayman Islands Training Program, has been delivered on island since 2010 and in 2016 was delivered to the Cayman Judiciary.

Following that course, alumni formed The Association of Cayman Mediators and Arbitrators to promote better access to mediation and to develop complementary alternatives to going to trial.

LSM offers this course to help in building a substantial cohort of mediators trained to the highest standards to promote civil/commercial mediation in the Cayman Islands as a centre of excellence in dispute resolution.

The civil and commercial mediator training course, will be delivered on island to world class standards.

Course structure

Pre-course

- Three hours of pre-reading on course materials provided 14 days in advance

Training Days

- Five days of training from 0800 to 1330 daily, with homework each evening.
- Training is interactive and discursive, practical and enjoyable role-plays form the core.

Assessment

- There will be supported assessment with roleplays and consolidation time throughout the course.

Examination and beyond

- An open-book exam is set at the end of the course with four weeks to return the same to an independent moderator.
- If the assessments and examinations are passed then accreditation follows.
- After accreditation, LSM can, if required, continue to provide support and CPD in GCM

The course which LSM will deliver in 2019 will once again be to the highest UK and US standards for civil and commercial mediation. The lead tutors have international reputations for excellence. Judith won the coveted Mediation Achiever of the Year Award presented in London before a major audience. She earned high praise too in the past Cayman Islands courses and sample feedback is included. This accredited course is a must for all those who have seen the future of civil litigation, justice and resolution.

Motivation

We are keen to make sure that the level of interaction and experience is as high as possible and so balance the need for teaching with emphasis on the practical side of matters. With one of our trainers having been for years closely involved with the UK Civil Mediation Council's pioneering work, we have a firm eye on what are seen as the required skill sets which we must ensure that you learn in the three days.

This course is not only about learning mediation: it is about developing all round business and vocational skills and doing so in a comfortable and convivial atmosphere where we encourage delegates to hang up any professional hats and to start to look at a fresh approach to problem solving, solution finding, negotiation, listening, and questioning in new and exciting ways. Delegates invariably greatly value and enjoy this course: feedback from those who did is available – over 98% of delegates in the last 12 years gave the course the highest recommendation!

Suitability

These courses are not just for attorneys – in fact usually 25% of those attending LSM courses are not practicing attorneys. We have had judges, parliamentarians, diplomats, soldiers, artists, house-keepers, bankers, accountants, insolvency practitioners, constructions managers, insurers, fund-managers, assessors, police, and pilots – all on one recent course.

“...an outstanding experience with wonderful tutors...”

The Course Leaders

Judith Kelbie Solicitor of the Supreme Court and Mediator

Judith is a highly successful mediator with an international reputation. She was a peer-elected independent mediator on the Board of the Civil Mediation Council for six years and Chair of the Standards and Accreditation Committee with Sir Henry Brooke. As a Mediator, she has an exceptional reputation having completed many hundreds of mediations. She has led or taught over a hundred mediation courses worldwide. Having addressed the OSCE in Warsaw and the European Conference in Paris, Judith has an exceptional knowledge of training and accreditation issues, and has trained students from New Zealand to Newcastle, Ireland to India, Cambridge to Cayman. Judith is the founder and director of LSM.

Tessa Herman Solicitor of the Supreme Court and Mediator

Tessa is an experienced mediator, mediating civil, commercial and workplace disputes. She is a director of LSM and has been delivering mediation training and coaching with LSM for a number of years both in the UK and internationally. Tessa is a highly experienced personal injury solicitor having spent over 20 years conducting high value catastrophic injury claims with a renowned UK law firm and through her own consultancy practice. She is passionate about mediation and enjoys sharing this passion through her training of new mediators.

Leslie Talbot Cayman Mediator and Conference Facilitator

Leslie was an active member of the Florida Bar where she was also a practicing mediator before relocating to Cayman in connection with her husband's employment. Leslie took the London School of Mediation training to add to her credentials. Having extensively used her mediation skills while in the United States, Leslie is excited to bring those skills to Cayman and to help expand the use of mediation as a dispute resolution device. Leslie has been the boots on the ground in bringing our training session to Grand Cayman.
